

Religiana

Religiana is a project of Future for Religious Heritage (FRH)

FRH was established in 2011 as the only independent, non-faith, non-for-profit European network working to safeguard religious heritage. The network has more than 150 members in 35 countries and promotes collaborative projects and the exchange of best practices throughout Europe.

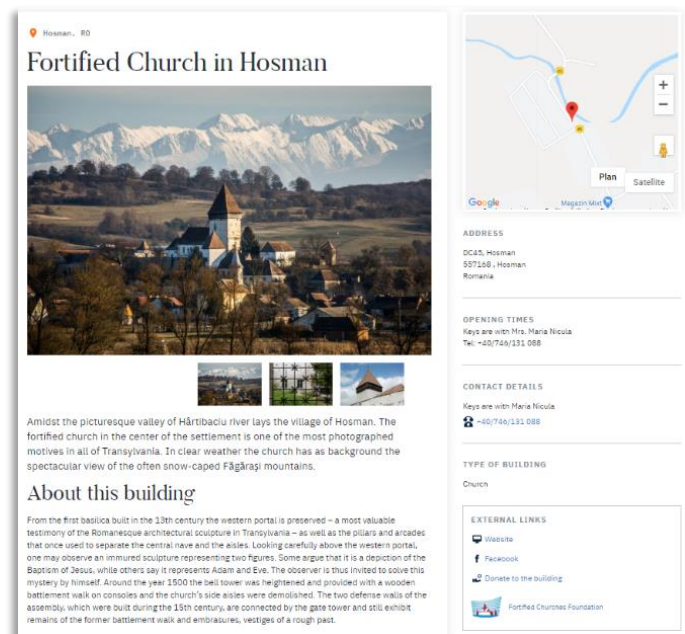

THE CONCEPT

Religiana is a project that brings places of worship to visitors, by giving them Europe-wide visibility.

The output of the project is the Religiana website, hosting more than 6,000 religious heritage sites from 46 countries, and constantly expanding.

The website provides visitors with accurate information on opening hours and key characteristics on sites.

Religiana website is a gateway to partner organisations, it redirects our visitors to their websites.

The screenshot shows a detailed profile for the 'Fortified Church in Hosman'. It includes a main photograph of the church in a valley, a map showing its location in Romania, and a text description. The text describes the church as a 13th-century Romanesque basilica with a fortified structure, situated in the village of Hosman in Transylvania. It mentions the church's historical significance and its current state. The profile also lists contact details for Mrs. Maria Nicula and provides external links to social media and the Fortified Churches Foundation.

Customised building profiles with your logo and link to your website

EVOLUTION OF THE PROJECT

- Begun in 2017, the Religiana project already has more than 6,000 sites and thousands of visitors each month
- Partnerships have been developed with many organisations whose buildings now appear on Religiana.